Progress on priorities 2023-24	Priorities 2024-2025	Strengths
Priority 1: The school has made significant progress in this priority, with most of the actions completed. The twelve principles are having a positive impact on learning and teaching, encouraging collaboration among pupils, especially in Years 3 to 6. The pupils have benefited from valuable learning experiences based on local contexts, such as visits to the nearby seawall. Programs like Jig-so and support groups have strengthened the principle that good teaching promotes social and emotional development. Quality assurance activities have shown that pupils are beginning to take responsibility for their learning and are gaining independence, with the school planning to continue developing this aspect next year. Priority 2: Using the external environment to develop rich learning experiences across the school The school has made significant progress in this priority, greatly enhancing outdoor learning opportunities. Most classes now offer outdoor learning sessions, carefully designed to enhance the learning experience, such as writing haikus outdoors. All foundation learning classrooms include dedicated outdoor learning areas, effectively used to provide beneficial experiences for the pupils. Feedback from pupils shows that the outdoor learning initiatives have led to a noticeable improvement in engagement, enthusiasm, and enjoyment, having a positive impact on overall standards. Priority 3: Adopting trauma-informed school principles to nurture healthy, principled, and confident individuals. The school has made strong and continuous progress in this priority, with most of the actions completed, and is on track to become an accredited trauma-informed school. All staff members are committed to these principles and have received training, with two members achieving the Trauma-Informed Diploma, qualifying them as fully trained practitioners. The Senior Leadership Team has completed two additional days of intensive training, enabling them to strategically plan for the implementation of trauma-informed practices in the school. Priority 4: The school's commitment to staff professional development has ensured the success of the development plan priorities, offering opportunities that align with performance management goals and school priorities. Feedback on training is collected during staff meetings, fostering a collaborative environment for continuous improvement and refining methods to support staff professional development. The impact of professional learning is closely monitored, with group reading and mathematics training leading to notable improvements in pupils' skills and conceptual understanding. The school has applied to become a leading school for students with the Open University, providing further opportunities to support trainee teachers, and inviting staff members to co-assure in other schools, fostering a strong ethos of professional development.	Priority 1: Implementing a consistent trauma-informed ethos to support the health and well-being of every member of the school community. Evidence: Following up steps to aim for trauma-informed school accreditation. Priority 2: Ensuring that marking, questioning, and staff feedback identify the next steps in pupils' learning and have a direct impact on pupils' progress and achievement. Evidence: Quality assurance reports scrutinizing books and progress discussions with pupils. Priority 3: Aligning pupils' independent learning skills across the school, including their ability to make choices about their learning, improve their own work, and influence the school's work. Evidence: Lesson observations and learning walks.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>All staff members have received beneficial training guided by the school's priorities. This has had a positive impact on classroom provision. A thorough and consistent quality assurance program is in place by the headteacher, and all teaching staff are included in this, which develops leaders at all levels<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>It was noted during lesson observations that there are strong aspects of learning and teaching across the school. Opportunities are planned for next year to share these good practices in order to continue improving provision.</li><li>ALN (Additional Learning Needs) is a strength, with an Estyn thematic visit leading to the writing of two case studies of good practice. Several quality assurance activities have highlighted that the Jig-so program has had a positive impact on nearly all learners' attitudes, engagement, and readiness to learn. We have been invited to present our practices at the ALN CYDAG conference in Aberystwyth on 2.10.2024 to share good practice cross-regionally.</li></ul></li><li>Meysydd Gwella<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>The school has recognized the need to continue developing outdoor activities even more purposefully and diversely in the coming year, aiming to further enrich the educational experience for all students</li><li>Following the literacy co-assurance this year, it was noted that the school is making strong strides towards achieving the Siarter Iaith award accreditation. The school therefore plans to gather evidence and submit it in the autumn.</li><li>To aim for Trauma-Informed School Accreditation, all staff members will receive PACE training in September 2024. This will continue to be a priority next year</li></ul></li></ul>
